A certainty that there will be made by the food administration modifications in the 30 day storage clause whereby seed wheat may be kept in the counties in which it is needed instead of being shipped into terminal markets, later to be returned to the grower, plus commissions both ways and with the almost absolute assurance of its having been fouled in transit, was expressed by Attorney Robert O. Taft, special representative of Food Administrator Herbert C. Hoover, in conference with Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor John N. Hagan this morning.

"To me," said Mr. Hagan, "this is one of the most important problems confronting the farmer. The good wheat grows this year will make splendid seed next spring. In every county enough of the best of this wheat should be retained to sow the increased acreage which we are asked to plant next year. If the farmer must surrender this seed wheat at the end of 30 days, it will go into terminal markets with the remainder of the crop, and even with the best of care it is almost certain to be fouled before it gets back to the farmer. Furthermore, there will be some commissions and freight charges to pay, unnecessarily increasing the cost to the farmer of his own seed. I am certain from what Mr. Taft says that this justice will be taken care of and I regard it as very important victory for the farmers of the northwest which will do much to insure a bigger and better wheat crop, not only for 1916, but for other years to come."

"This afternoon," said Mr. Hagan, "I hope to obtain from Mr. Taft a definite understanding of what it will mean to the farmer to lose absolute control of his wheat at the end of 30 days' storage. It is hard for me to believe, with the information I have been able to get, that this will not work to the disadvantage of the farmer. Mr. Taft seems to feel that it will not, and he may be able to give us assurances which will set doubts on this point at rest."

Nothing to Report.

Mr. Taft had nothing to report at noon. "We have got nowhere as yet," he said. "We have talked things over thoroughly this morning, and we may have something to report before night. Just now, though, we are not much further along than we were yesterday."

First-Hand Information.

Mr. Taft returned Wednesday night from a day's tour of the Slope country, in which he covered 150 miles in company with Chief Grain Inspector J. O. McGovern. "We visited 15 elevators and talked with any number of farmers and elevator men," said Mr. Taft. "I feel that I know much more of the situation now than I did before I started out."

Mr. Taft had an excellent opportunity to see the wheat situation at its average worst. He went through a district where the crop is very spotty, and where $8 per bushel will not begin to pay the cost of seed, planting and harvesting in many cases. He probably knows now why the bulk of North Dakota's wheat growers resent the fact that the price-fixing committee should have beaten the price of wheat down from around $3 to the neighborhood of $2 after the winter wheat had been marketed, and just as the spring wheat was beginning to come in.

NEWS OF NORTH DAKOTA AND NORTHWEST

JEWISH HIGH HOLIDAYS WILL BE OBSERVED WITH SOLEMN CEREMONIES IN CAPITAL CITY

Rosh Hashanah, Hebrew New Year 5678, Will Be Celebrated in Impressive Manner—Call issued for Faithful to Take Note of the Day of Atonement and to Remember Their People and the Ideals They Have Stood for Throughout the Centuries.

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, marking the advent of the Hebrew year 5678, which the Jews hold dates back to the Creation, will be observed in Bismarck by the Hebrew association next Monday and Tuesday. For the first time in the history of the capital city, the Jewish colony has attained sufficient size to warrant the holding of the strict, orthodox ceremonies in a community gathering place, and Patterson's hall has been engaged for the new year's day exercises and for the observance of the Day of Atonement, September 25. On both of these days donations to the Jewish War Sufferers' Relief fund will be accepted.

"From the far-away blood-drenched battlefields the voice of our stricken people is calling to those of us who have through circumstances and environment drifted away, bidding us to return," says William Rosenberg, secretary of the Bismarck Hebrew association, in his letter calling attention to the high holidays of the orthodox. "Now, more than ever during the past 2,000 years, your nation needs you. In these days of all days, when all the enlightened and liberty-loving nations of the world are cheerfully and willingly sacrificing their fortunes and shedding their blood like water that the small nations may not perish from the face of the earth, the Jewish nation which has contributed to civilization most and suffered the most, included, deserting one's people and its heritage no longer is considered a virtue by your good neighbor. This is an era of national awakening to conscientiousness. So, if at any time some of us during the days of our aimless drifting had the least occasion to wonder why we oftentimes failed to gain sufficient respect and esteem from our neighbors, commensurate with our activities and the desire to please in every field of endeavor, except that which has concerned our own people, we know that the reason of it is because by deserting our people and our traditions we have failed to acquire sufficient self-respect for our neighbors to respect us. Now is the opportunity for all of us to come together and do our full duty."

The only Jewish Synagogue located in Burleigh county is established at Wing, a small farming community on the Pingree-Wilton line. Bismarck, however, has in the Hebrew association a strong and rapidly growing organization which may in time be expected to provide its members with a suitable and permanent house of worship.

COULDN'T TELL WHICH TWIN HIT HIM; ASSAULT PROCEEDING DISMISSED

Cogswell Man Knew He Had Been Swatted, but Resemblance of Brothers Beat Him

Cogswell, N. D., Sept. 13.—Because he couldn't tell which twin hit him, Herman Christopher lost his assault and battery case against Fred and Jim Turner, although the complainant when he appeared before Justice H. L. Taylor bore very positive evidence that an assault had been committed. All that the complainant could swear to was that one of the twins had swatted him. When Jim was in the prisoner's box, he couldn't swear that it wasn't Fred that had swatted him. And when Fred stepped forward, the complainant was inclined to believe Jim was his man. So the justice of the peace dismissed the case, not being a modern Solomon with the ability to unscramble the twins and levy a composite fine against the two of them.

RUSSIAN THISTLE GOES INTO SILOS IN PLACE OF CORN

Humble Weed Which Thrives Regardless Proves Godsend to Slope Stockmen

Beach, N. D., Sept. 13.—Stockmen in this vicinity who are suffering a shortage of forage are utilizing the Russian thistle as a substitute for corn in their silos. J. P. Reeve yesterday visited one of the largest cattle-men in the district and found him filling one big silo with corn and another with the thistle, mixed with chopped oat straw, to absorb the surplus moisture in the thistle. Last winter, this cattleman advises, a considerable quantity of the thistle was mixed with the corn which went into his silos, and the cattle seemed to like the weed as well as they did the corn and to thrive on it. There is always an abundance of the thistle, a near cousin to the cacti, even in the driest of seasons, and the Beach cattleman believes he has made a discovery of much value to stockmen generally.

Using It Here.

The use of Russian thistle for roughage is not unknown to Burleigh county stockmen. William E. Brem, one of the largest raisers of cattle in the Bismarck district, is depending largely upon this weed to supply roughage for his stock next winter.

EN ROUTE TO SOUTH

A battalion of the First Montana infantry in command of Major McGinnis went through yesterday on a special train bound for Charlotte, N. C., or Greenville, S. C. Today a detachment of Idaho national guard laid over in Mandan for several hours en route to the same destination. There seems to be some doubt as to whether the northwestern division, with which North Dakota probably will be assigned, is going to North or South Carolina.

SECOND OUSTER SUIT ON REGENTS ON FOR FRIDAY

Governor Frazier Renews Efforts
To Control Board in Supreme Court Tomorrow

CHIEF EXECUTIVE HAS ALREADY NAMED MEN

Arguments will be made in supreme court Friday morning in Governor Frazier's ouster suit against Edmund Scow of Bowman and J. A. Power of Leonard, cited on application of the attorney general to show why they should retain places on the state board of regents, their terms having expired by law July 1. Aubrey Lawrence of Fargo represents the defendants.

This action grows out of an effort made by Governor Frazier last January to supplant the entire board with five appointees of his own. The senate rejected on three separate occasions all of the governor's nominations and adjourned without having confirmed any successors to Scow and Power. The act creating the state board of regents provided that these successors should be nominated by the governor not later than Jan. 15, and that the appointment be made by and with the consent of the senate. On the grounds that the act had not been complied with in this respect, and contending that no successors had been legally appointed, Scow and Power did not relinquish their places on the board July 1.

Since July 1, Governor Frazier has succeeded in placing one of his men, Rev. C. E. Vermilyea, on the board, through the resignation of Col. Frank White to take command of the Second regiment. Complete control of the board would result from victory for the governor in the present action. He already has commissioned Robert Muir of Sartell, brother-in-law of William Lenke, and George E. Totten of Bowman, brother-in-law of Mrs.

Lillian Totten, who gained some unwelcome notoriety before the federal grand jury in connection with the indictment of Kate Richards O'Hare, who had been a guest of the Tottens while in Bowman. The seating of these two men, with Vermilyea already on the board, would leave the two Hanna appointees—Chairman Lewis E. Crawford of Sentinel Butte, and Dr. J. D. Taylor of Grand Forks—in the minority, and would give the administration control of all educational institutions.

that they be sent home to the Caucasus front, where, however, they must not be employed against their co-religionists, the Turks.

"After protracted negotiations we agreed to recommend this solution to Premier Kerensky and we returned to Petrograd. The premier has not promised us that the 'savage division' will be unpunished and will be sent home to the Caucasus to repel its ranks, and will be exempt from service from the Turks. I consider their submission assured."

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COMMISSION, SEPT. 10, 1917.

The City Commission met in regular session. There were present Commissioners Battley, Bertsch, Best and Kirk. An ordinance compelling all railway companies in the city of Bismarck to have and maintain a flagman, or lights, or gates at such crossings as may be designated by the City Commission was read for the second time and passed.

Attorney Allen appeared and speaking for his clients asked that the final estimate of Hanlon & Okes be held up for another week. Attorney Andrew Miller appeared and spoke for the Northern Pacific Railway company asking that the city bear on the right of way be moved at once.

The Commission accepted the offer of the county for barn in question, price paid to be $300.00.

The City Auditor was ordered to publish a notice in the official paper asking the citizens of Bismarck to boil the water furnished by the Bismarck Water Supply Company.

Commissioner Kirk introduced a sidewalk resolution of the usual form ordering walks to be built on the east side of Block 7 Original Plat and the west side of Block 8 Original Plat.

The Commission rescinded the order to rebuild sidewalk at the corner of Rosser street and Second street.

E. E. Morris, assessor, protested against his assessment by the Special Assessment Commission for sewer connections in paving District Number Two. The Commission decided the assessment was just and accepted the assessment as presented by the Special Assessment Commission.

The final estimate of the Haggart Construction Company for the lowering of the Sanitary Sewer on Third street was held up and is not to be paid until a satisfactory adjustment has been made in the matter of the Broadway sewer pump. It was decided to pay the cost of lowering the sanitary sewer out of the general fund.

The report of the chief of police for the month of August, 1917, showing 41 arrests made, was received and ordered filed.

B. M. Beers and Sons bid for the furnishing of a well to the City Hospital at $1.80 per foot was accepted and the City Attorney was instructed to draw up a contract for the same.

The Appropriation Ordinance for the year 1917 was introduced by Commissioner Battley and read for the first time. The report of the Auditorium committee was received and ordered to be printed. The various resolutions necessary for the constructing of paving on streets around the court house were introduced and passed.

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid funds permitting: B. C. McLean, street commissioneer $14.37 Alfred Farland $9.00 Chris Martinson $9.09 T. R. Atkinson $2.19 Bismarck Tribune Co. $0.98 Geo. Kohlhorst $0 Joe Breckin $1.63 E. W. Scott $2.50 E. K. Skeels $8.50 M. D. Ind. Tel. Co. $8.55 Fredric Bass $15.00 J. F. Burton, City Auditor. $15.00 Bismarck Grocery Company $2.00 Marshall Oil Company $17.75 Joe Katz $1.00

On motion the bill was adjourned to meet again Wednesday evening, September 12, 1917.

Raid May Bring Charges Against Mercer Sheriff

Allegations Made That Blind-Fig-ging and Gambling Have Been Countenanced

Hazen, N. D., Sept. 13.—The seizure of three five-gallon kegs of whiskey in a raid on Charles Ellsworth's place here yesterday may lead to preferring charges against Sheriff William Haevisher of having failed to rigidly enforce the laws against blindflogging and gambling. State's Attorney H. L. Barry announced during the course of an investigation here today.

After examining several witnesses this afternoon, the state's attorney learned the testimony tended to show that blindflogging and gambling had been indulged in rather too freely, and that the officers of the law had been inclined to be over-lenient in the matter.

The whiskey seized yesterday had been brought across the line from Mondak, Mont., by automobile, and it is alleged that a large number of valuable cargoes have come in by this route.

Mr. Barry advised today that a careful investigation is being made, but that he does not care to state at present whether formal charges against Sheriff Haevisher will be filed with the governor.

Diseases of Teeth.

The use of gold as a substitute for lead or bone as a filling was perfected in 1855 by Dr. Robert Arthur of Baltimore, while in 1884 Prof. A. D. Muller of Berlin, in his discovery of the bacteria origin of diseases of the teeth and of the large part played by lactic acid, opened the way to avenues of research which may ultimately lead to the total extinction of the dentist.

RUSSELL GIVES INTERESTING PEN

that reflects great credit on the Russian people. They had joy themselves and they wanted all the neighbors to come in and have some.

There were two men in Russia that never for a moment allowed their enthusiasm to distort their knowledge of the world as it really is with Germany in it.

One was Prince Kropotkin, the old-time philosopher and revolutionist, whose daring escape from the fortress of Peter and Paul is one of the most stirring chapters in the imperishable history of Russian Democracy, and the other was Placonoff, who first unfurled the red flag of revolution in the Nevsky Prospect, the great thoroughfare of Petrograd.

These elder warriors in the long fight continually warned their countrymen that so long as German autocracy remained in the world unbroken there was no chance for democracy either in Russia or in any other place.

I heard Prince Kropotkin speak on this subject one Sunday afternoon in the Norodny Dom, great people's palace of Petrograd, and his logic was like an avalanche rushing down a Swiss mountainside. It swept all before it.

Kropotkin and Placonoff steadily insisted that the first duty of the new democracy in Russia was to give to the other democracies of the world all possible help in the life and death struggle against autocracy. The revolution was only a few weeks old when Kropotkin came out of his trance and saw that these men were right. He has not wavered since from that conviction, which has grown steadily among all Russian people that think.

He is a good parliamentarian, but not so good as Tseratelli, the silent man of Russia, nor as Tschaidse, the resourceful chairman of the National Council. These two, in my opinion, have no superiors in any parliamentary body in the world. I have seen Tschaidse steer the council so swiftly and skillfully around perilous shoals and through difficult straits that he made all the other presiding officers of my acquaintance seem bunglers. He was like old Hank Half, the prince of Nantucket skippers. He knew instinctively in advance every change in wind or weather and had everything ready for it.

Good Parliamentarian.

But Kerensky is pretty good at that sort of thing. The time the council was about to split over the anarchists' demonstration and was saved by as clever a piece of parliamentary maneuvering as ever was pulled off, the credit for the scheme, he was told, belonged to him as much as to Tschaidse.

As to his health and this dream stuff about the race between death and a Napoleon stunt—I don't see anything in that. I suppose it may be possible for a man to be very sick and to give every indication of being very well, but I don't believe it. Mr. Kerensky, it is true, has no ruddy color in his face and is obviously not a husky. But his eye is perfectly clear and good, his step is quick and firm, his voice has the ring of health, his hand grasp is the grip of a man of vigor, and when he is launched upon one of his amazing speeches I can assure you he is the only impression you get from him is of power and health.

The picture of an invalid with one foot in the grave and yet doing these oratorical feats was of course, very taking, and a good story, but it seems to be chiefly a pipe.

Not so big a pipe, however, as the other idea that he will "save Russia." Nobody will do that but just Russia herself.

BOOST THE MESS FUND.

No one knows how soon the order will come for the Bismarck companies of the national guard to move to a mobilization camp, preparatory to service in Europe. Every citizen of the Capital City should contribute to the mess fund which the Elks are raising through the medium of a benefit dance at the state house tomorrow evening.

This city has responded generously to the Red Cross and other war benefits, but we are just learning to give. These men are going to fight your battles and each man, woman and child should assist in lightening the burden of their sacrifice. A company fund will do much to bring cheer to the men when they are far away. Support the Elks to the limit in their worthy work.

SWEDEN MUST EXPLAIN.
Nothing but an emphatic disavowal of her agent's act in Argentine and condign punishment for his violation of national honor, will satisfy the American people that Sweden is not sympathetic with our German foes.

The people of Sweden have not spoken. There has been no popular expression of approval or disapproval of the unneutral acts of their government officials. The incident is too serious to dismiss lightly. If the ruling class of Sweden is pro-German, it is well to know it now so that the United States can protect her army transports against the machinations of Swedish pro-German diplomats.

It has been known that the Swedish government was as friendly as it dared to be to the house of Hohenzollerns' Gustav, as was the case with Constantine of Greece, has a German wife, and she has given a Teutonic atmosphere to the Swedish court life. The entente has long had Sweden under surveillance, and the overt act of Count Luxburg may confirm suspicions held commonly throughout the world.

Those who know the Swedish people can hardly believe that they would draw the sword in defense of Prussian autocracy and butchery, nor that they will be snared by the kaiser's diplomacy.

War trade with Germany has made the Swedish aristocracy and ruling classes friendly to the central powers. Who can tell but that the kaiser is holding out Finland as a bait for Swedish intervention?

The hope of the allies lies with the Swedish masses now engaged in an election. Probably this incident will test the temper of the Scandinavians and classify them definitely as friends, neutrals or enemies.

What effect Sweden would have if she cast her lot with the central powers is hard to determine. It is understood that Norway, Sweden and Denmark have an agreement to act jointly on matters involving their status in this war. Could Sweden draw Norway into a German alliance, and would Denmark follow?

If Sweden goes with Germany, the gain for the kaiser would not be very great. A negligible naval force and an army of only 500,000 soldiers are hardly factors at a Sweden cut off from America; food stores would ring on the peninsula.

However, the American people, kind to Sweden by a thousand ties, await a prompt expression of neutrality, and certainly all must welcome the manifestations of loyalty from Swedish Americans throughout the length and breadth of the United States.

HISTORY REPEATS.

Korniloff's revolt is one of the common resultants of revolution. France in her bloody and long struggle to constitutional freedom, witnessed the usurpation of power by military leaders who attempted to use the army to satisfy their vaulting ambition.

As winter approaches, Russia is eliminated largely as a factor on the eastern front. It is to be hoped that behind the barriers of ice and snow, the Kerensky faction can work out Russia's salvation, or failing, give way to a regime that can.

Internal problems have obscured the war to ordinary minds in Russia. The revolution, like some magic wheel of fortune, hoisted many incompetents to places of high authority. A weeding out process is inevitable. History reveals the same reactions that are now going on in Russia. There is nothing sui generis about the situation at Petrograd.

France had her Dumouriez just as Russia has her Korniloff.

NO PEACE WITH WAR LORDS.

Ever since the start of the present great world war, brought on by German determination to rule the world, the German manufacturers of public opinion have been busy trying to unload their blood-guilt.

No he has been too patient. Exposed in one plea, they rapidly shift to another.

But the revelations of the past few weeks leave the German kaiser and the German government in a bad, bad light, indeed. No wonder the president, having inside information, said the word of Germany's present rulers could not be taken in any peace agreement.

The president not only knew—what all of us know—that to the German rulers treaties are mere scraps of paper, but he must have known the depths of duplicity to which lust for "weltmacht" had driven the Prussian overlords.

Former Ambassador Gerard has proved by the kaiser's cable to the president that Germany's published statements concerning the necessity for invading Belgium were plain lies. And fast upon the heels of this come the revelations of the secret archives of the deposed Czar Nicholas—poor, spineless, weakling—putty in the hands of stronger men—in constant correspondence by telegraph with Kaiser Wilhelm, who unceasingly worked for a condition in Europe making it safe for him to attack England.

The telegrams show the kaiser, taking advantage of the Russo-Japanese war, brought pressure to bear upon the czar to drop all friendly understanding with England and, instead, bring about a rapprochement with Germany.

Then he wanted France brought into a sort of triple alliance. As France had an alliance with Russia and was Russia's creditor for enormous sums, the kaiser thought it easy to force France to drop her entente cordiale with England and come into the German camp.

At the same time, the kaiser was cynically avowing his purpose, in case of war with England, to seize tiny Denmark—impudently and brutally avowing that German necessity knows no laws, no national rights. If Germany wants to attack England and France—invade Belgium. If Germany wants to use the Baltic against England—invade Denmark.

Now see what these telegrams reveal. The kaiser planned to isolate England. He figured it would then be an easy thing to settle accounts with her. That done, he could polish off either France or Russia, as suited his purpose. He would then be undisputed master of Europe and ready for his arrogant challenge to America and its Monroe Doctrine.

The telegrams reveal another thing. The Germans have pretended all along that they hated England only because she took up arms for democracy in the war against autocracy. The fact is, Germany has hated England for years, just as she has hated America for years.

German rulers hate any country richer than theirs, and whose government is more democratic. So long as there are great, rich democracies like America, England and France, the war lords of Germany do not sit absolutely secure.

There is always the chance that the German Michael will say to himself: "What is good for the Yankees should be good for me." They rule. Why should not I and my kind rule Germany?"

It was eminently wise for our president to insist he did not desire to talk peace with German war lords. We are bettering to know them.

CHAPTER XXV.—McCann seeks to compel Vera to go with him in the small boat, but the girl is rescued by Hollis. McCann and his followers escape.

CHAPTER XXVI.—Hollis and the few men who remained loyal successfully navigate the ship through a storm. They overtake the vessel's boats, in extreme peril.

CHAPTER XXVII.

A Dead Man in the Cabin.
The glimpse was but for an instant, the boat disappearing as it dropped into the hollow.

"It's our own quarterboat," I announced shortly, endeavoring to keep my glasses trained on the right spot.

"McCann, and those devils with him."

"Then, shall we stand by, sir?" asked Leary.

"Why should we be picking up that scum?"

I glanced aside at him.

"Why, Mr. Leary? Well, one reason is, we are American seamen. Those fellows can scarcely hurt us now, and a hand or two more aboard will help us to make port. We've got to have firemen below, and Rapallo would be able to spell Masters in the engine-room. I look on their coming as a God-send. Let your helm off another point—there, steady now; hold her just as she is."

Again I caught the boat in the focus of the leveled glasses; it was measurably nearer now, but I could only see four men aboard the craft, the other two being White and Rapallo. The tiller was gone, the man at the stern, Jim White, steering by means of a long oar; the sail had been whipped into rags, and a canvas shirt substituted. One man was on his knees bailing furiously, and Tony had an arm in a sling. So intent was I on this endeavor to decipher the details of the tragedy through the glass, I was unaware that Vera had climbed the ladder and now stood beside me, clinging to the rail. Her voice aroused me to her presence.

"Why, there are only four of them?"

"Yes; they must have passed through Hades last night," I answered. "Here, take the glass; there are two bodies lying in the bottom of the boat."

"Can you manage the wheel alone for a bit, Mr. Leary?"

"I can try, sir."

"Miss Carrington, would you mind giving the mate a hand?"

She fought her way across to him without a word, leaving the glass on the deck.

"Good; hold her as she is, and have Masters slow down. It is going to be a ticklish job to get those fellows on board; has anyone a suggestion?"

"A running noose from the lower main-yard, sir," said Olson.

"That will take only one at a time."

"Two, if they're quick enough about it; but it's the only way, sir. That boat wouldn't live a second close in alongside."

"Right you are; you and Dade, and Olson, and Dugan joined me.

"Now, look here," I said grimly.

"We're human beings; but there's going to be no mistake as to your exact status on this ship. You'll take your orders from me, and I'll kill the first man-jack of you who shows a sign of treachery. What became of Sachse?"

Mccann was still gasping from his drop into the sea, and could not an-acquiring fame as "The Physical Culture Baby" Charlie, son of Mr and Mrs Fred P. White of Syracuse, weighs 24 pounds at the age of 2

10 pound weights.I interviewed Baby Charlie on the front porch in the backyard and all

To what do you attribute your unusual strength? I asked.

"Umphum, goo-goo, blub," answered Charlie.

"Do you like your beefsteak rare or well done?" I continued.

Sheep Most Useful Animal.

Since shepherds watched their flock by night on the plains of Palestine and for thousands of years anterior to the march of the Magi after the course of the Star of the East, which led them to the manger at Bethlehem, the sheep has been held one of most sacred and beautiful and useful of all animals in the economies of mankind. ACCLAIMED BRITAIN'S HERO

London Schoolmaster, Wounded in Battle in France, Attains High Fame.

London—A London schoolmaster named Wilson, who enlisted and lost an arm and a leg in France, returned to teaching after his recovery and became the idol of his students.

The discipline among members of his class was perfect, the boys enforcing it among themselves. Finally, after the authorities discovered him to be better teacher than ever, the school arranged for an exhibition bearing of one of his history lessons. At this exhibition Wilson asked:

"Now, boys, who is the greatest outstanding British military hero of all time?"

The boys instantly stood, cheered three and shouted in chorus "Mr. Wilson!"
